Art Against Apartheid is a nationwide movement of artists of all disciplines who regard the situation in Southern Africa as a monumental injustice and a serious threat to peace in our time. The cultural events planned during October and throughout the following year aim to educate, and focus public attention on the inhuman treatment of Black people and their allies in South Africa and Namibia. The events are part of the worldwide campaign for the release of Nelson Mandela and all other political prisoners from South African and Namibian jails and they support the United Nations sponsored cultural boycott of South Africa.
